COMMISSIONER LETTER

By Sawyer Wilson

TURG'S WHINE FEST & SAVI DISRESPECT

"I'm just saying, if I beat a guy 99 times out a 100 and he beats me ONE time, and he even says it was the ROUND OF HIS LIFE, how can he be ahead of me in the rankings?"

If you heard it once, you heard it a million times. It was the topic de jour for the former Gator All-American during the PVI Classic, and he came prepared with an agenda; he was going to be ahead of Savi by the weeks end.

The protest began on the drive up to PV en route to Juliette Fall for an exhibition round.

"Hey commissioner bonesaw, I've got a bone to pick with you about these rankings"

An AI enhanced
of Casey excited with his new ranking

The commissioner was perplexed, as the rankings perfectly reflected the gross scores at the Bonesaw Open. What controversy was there to be had? Spoiler alert: a nothing burger contrived from Turg's personal grievance at being slighted.

"I'm just saying, you can ask anyone, I have beaten Savinon almost every single time we've played together. IN FACT! I think he's never beaten me at all".

At this point my head was spinning, did he really have the audacity to lie to me to my face? In BSGA 1? I retorted "My dear friend, he literally beat you all three rounds at Open? Am I to disregard the hard facts for your conjecture? What sort of precedent would that set? What am I supposed to do with this information". To which an even more bizarre thought emerged from Turgeon's mouth.

"I don't know! Ask around!"... Ask around? Ask around?? As the custodian of the internet's number 1 tour I'm supposed to rely on hearsay to arrive at world rankings

? This foolish thought was immediately dismissed but the gator was invested in the rankings at this point and was going to death roll his way in front of Savi (who's a great guy and may never be able to get the tire tracks off his back after this controversy)

The tempers cooled in the car with the commissioner holding firm, and if we lived in a perfect world, the debate would stop here. But we live in a fallen world and the debate had only just begun.

No fewer than a dozen times did Casey bring up his "disrespectful" ranking (you earned it buddy, play better) and each time he would look to the crowd for confirmation. At one point Spencer W chimed in "oh yeah, he was going around to everyone saying 'it was my best round ever! Never shot in the 70's before'"! And Turg turned to me as if this was some sort of evidence that I should consider in HIS favor? So hold up, let me get this straight; when the lights shined brightest, Savi played electric and you collapsed under the pressure?

And that's supposed to HELP you ranking? One could only shake their head in disbelief.

However, I'm happy to report this story, much like a Robert Kraft massage, has a happy ending. Fueled by the fire the Bonesaw had ignited Turg went (relatively) low at the Yards, making the commish sweat. A less than stellar performance at the Lagoon course genuinely put me in discomfort; I was looking for any excuse to give this man his wish and thus far I hadn't gotten one. But oh boy did he turn it around.

In what has been widely heralded as true Open conditions, Turg carded an 80 when many struggled to stay in the 90's. This triumphant round gave the commish exactly what he was looking for; a Turgeon leap from. Much like the UF's rank in football programs in the state, he now comfortably rests at 2nd. #earnednotgiven

ZACH “17- HANDICAP MY ASS”

And the Need for AI

O

Often considered a man amongst boys and never one to shy away from giving group dad energy, Zach is widely considered one of, if not the most, honorable men on tour.

However his performances so far this year (2 majors in 3 appearances) has brought into question the legitimacy of his scoring. Many are asking “how does this assassin get away with a 17?”

And as your commissioner, I hear you. I feel your pain. But let me tell you, you haven't seen what I've seen. This young man has earned that handicap through blood sweat and tears. While the swing is absolutely a work of art, top 2 on tour! The mental can often escape him when it comes to course management. And I should have seen what was coming when he was put on my team for the PVI; he was going to play lights out.

For you see, Zach's actual game is quite solid but he needs a caddie to reach his ceiling. And whenever Zach and your favorite commissioner play together, he often relies on the Bonesaw for guidance. And lo and behold he shoots 3 stellar rounds in a major and takes home his own hosted Major. So what is there to do? How can one account for an earned handicap AND a the known PED (Performance Enhancing Dawg) of playing by the commish? Well, we think we found it.

We are proud to introduce our first AI program, ChatBGT, to help us dial in our quotas. Simply by asking this finely tuned AI the questions, we can get the answers we need. For instance “Hey Chat BPT, what is the performance boost for Sawyer being in Zach's bag?” and it will tell us the answer is honestly about 8 strokes a round. So when you browse your quotas and you may have an issue, understand this was a finely tuned scientific process and I am right and you are wrong.

LAKE JOVITA

THE NEXT MAJOR

I wanted to use this opportunity to share the plans for the next Major, and gently remind you what is at stake. On January 6th the inaugural Mostly Peaceful Self Guided Tour of the Capitol Rotunda Ashley Babbit Memorial tournament will take place in the form of a 36-hole, one day quota cumulative tournament.

The trophy will likely be the largest acquired by the tour, with plans to have it engraved for every champion and live in lore. We have tentatively planned for this to take place at Lake Jovita, but there are other backup plans in place in case this is not feasible.

The field will be limited to tour members, including the top 4 finishers december 2nd, and special invitees ONLY (a special invitee is someone who either buys a house with the commissioner or refers a friend).

This will be a storied event as well, as it will be the fourth and final major of the tour season before we head into the winter meetings, and the winner will be able to hibernate all winter long snuggled up against that massive trophy. I'll see you there gentleman.

Established tour members embrace in front of a professional backdrop in eager anticipation of the Bonesaw Open Major Championship, a sign of things to come

A Letter From Your Favorite Commissioner to Our New Competitors

Let me be the first to say; welcome. You have been hand selected to join the most exciting internet tour at our infancy and we can't wait to host you. There will be many funs, and certainly a good golf shot here or there. I wanted to take this opportunity to let you know what makes this league so great, what is at our core. And that is the fact we're all a bunch of good dudes having a good time. We are a camaraderie first league and the positive vibes are always at the priority. Who wants to be miserable on a golf course? Well, when you're as consistently low as I am it's difficult to be that upset. But for our journeyman who still have the volatile rounds in them, you're here to have fun.

And also, you probably shouldn't be surprised when you hit a bad shot. The reaction should more likely be akin to "yep, right on schedule" as the ball peters 50 yards down the fairway.

I say that to say, the golf, the competition, the trash talking I will mix in to motivate or destroy your mental (Justin) is all in jest and in the pursuance of a more perfect tour. So when you cold shank one you shouldn't, or top a ball off the tee, step back, take a breathe, and realize how freaking cool this is.

Thank You From Your Commish

CLEARWATER QUALIFIER

For the uninitiated the Bonesaw Tour has rapidly evolved and expanded into something not even I can control. The cat is out of the bag and you can't put that toothpaste back in the tube. So we gathered together to create an opportunity to invite more sick bros to see what we've built and to participate. This event will be the first open invitational event where Tour members may invite 1 or more guests to compete. The stakes are massive, as the top 4 amateurs on tour will earn a tour card granting them not just a luxurious status among friends and family, but also an automatic invitation to the J6 Major (tentatively planned for Lake Jovita) but also 2 more majors next year, AND a chance to be on our Ryder Cup team as we take on the BGA tour summer 2024. Without that qualification, you may be left out to hang. So let those stakes marinate... This event matters.

The rules are simple, Bogey = 1 point, Par = 2 points, Birdie = 4 points, Eagle = 8 points. Each player will be assigned a quota based on their handicap and powerful AI, combined with a patented algorithm.

Each player starts the round in the negative of their quota. So if you are a 25 quota, you start the round at (-25). Your goal is to have the best score in relation to your quota. So if a 10 quota scores 10 points (0) that's better than a 12 quota scoring 11 points (-11). The main benefit of the format is it allows players to not lose points at any point in the round, and keeps pace of play moving. The birdie bonus is also nice in that it rewards an excellent hole and allows players to get back in the game. In order to get a point that ball MUST go in the cup. Absolutely ZERO gimmies allowed. I don't care if it's 2 inches a way and you casually back hand the putt in and miss, that is a stroke.

We play standard BSGA rules, which is like the USGA but with 1 main exceptions.

- If a ball goes out of bounds as designated by white stakes, the player is allowed to take stroke and distance like it was a red stake, but MUST take a penalty stroke and drop in the field of play.

At the end of the round players are encouraged to hang in the clubhouse for the award ceremony and develop even more camaraderie. I look forward to hosting you all.

THE FUTURE IS BRIGHT TOUR PLANS

What was once a plucky group of young bucks yearning for a mountain golf retreat has rapidly evolved into more than I could have imagined. The buzz and media inquiries we are getting are outrageous. Truly. And it is on that note I am proud to announce that the State of the Tour is strong, and the future is bright.

2024 AND BEYOND

Currently for the 2024 season we have 4 majors, 1 qualifier, and Ryder cup event slated. Lessons have been learned and will be implemented in the running of these events and they will only get better. Additionally, we are in talks with the Crist Family foundation for a sanctioned tour event (Cristy's Countryside Classic (™)), and I am optimistic I will find another tour member to host their own event that will become a staple for years to come. That would put us at 8 events on the year and be a massive boost to our credibility as a tour and set a new standard from which we will only improve to serve you even better.

Ryder Cup 2024

I must confess, the idea for this tour did not emerge solely from my own brain. Alas, it was inspired by a tour that many of us BSGA tour members have begrudgingly participated in; The BGA. It's a group of washed up former Noles who have lost their passion for their own tour and are eager for a spark, much like a saddened couple who have long lost the flame and are running through the motions at this point. In both cases role playing is often considered as a trick to spice things up and in this case the Bonesaw Tour will be playing the role of young upstarts taking down the establishment. The top 8-10 tour members according to the BSGA rankings will automatically, with the remaining 2-4 hand selected (again, referring a home sale to the commissioner is weighted heavily in these decisions).

BSGA

This event will take place in the Summer of 2024, and will likely be a 3 day Ryder cup style match at a destination. The destination of Hammock Beach has been floated. This event will likely be straight up, with no strokes given to either side, mano e mano, and we need the best of the best in tow. So if that's you, I would be doing everything I can to earn a tour card at December 2nd's event or referring a home sale to the commissioner, because this is one event you won't want to miss.
